Materials list

4 mm Rope (cut 2 pieces to 123 inches long and 1 to 160 in long)

2 inch metal ring

Clear or Masking Tape

Scissors

Instructions

1. Take your cuts of rope and wrap tape around the ends to keep them from fraying. We will be cutting any excess off at the end of the project, so don't worry, you won't have to look at the ugly tape for long.
2. Folding your ropes in half from the middle, tie a cow hitch knot through your metal ring.
3. Start tying square knots, but only from the left side. You want it to spiral. Tie 10-12 of these.
4. Once you have finished with the top of your plant hanger, you will need to tie the "basket" that will hold your flower pot. Start by measuring 18 inches down from the last square knot. Now, you will divide and tie the ropes in groups of 2 at the 18 inch mark.
5. Taking your 3 groups of rope, measure down 3 to 4 inches. Now you will begin tying your 3 groups together at that measurement. Think of them as A, B, and C. You will tie one rope from A to once rope from B. Now the other rope from B, tie it to C. Now tie C's extra rope to A.
6. Once you have your "basket" made, you will measure down 3 inches from your last knots and tie all the ropes together in an overhand knot.
7. Trim your ropes to the desired length.
